Jay Gould's Funeral Services Were Very Simple.

MANY MILLIONAIRES THERE

our fur Squares—The Body to Be

New Your, Dec. 5 .- Not for a long on the funeral of any persons as it was no that of Jay Gould today. Notwithing the printed an that the services would be private and that none but relatives and intimate friends would be admitted to the house, copie began to congregate in its vicinfor admission who had not the shadow of an excuse for so doing. By 2 o'clock this afternoon there were at least a thousand persons gathered in the vicinity of the Gould residence, and by the ity of the Gould residence, and by the time the funeral service began the crowd had increased three fold. It was an orderly crowd and the police had little to do outside of keeping the walks in front of the residence for the passage of pedestrians. The day was clear and cold and a raw wind awept through the streets, making it indeed a most uncomfortable task for any persons to stand in one position for any length of time, but the crowd of morbid curiosity seekers which had gathered, and which was composed of men, women and children in all stations of life, was not deterred in the least by the unfavorable element. Just that stiefaction they gained in standing about is a mystery, as they could see and hear nothing of the service. They seemed content, however, in looking long and earnestly at the house.

While the services were going on there was a constant stream of carriages driven up and down the avenue in front of the house. The occupants of these showed just as much curiosity as these who stood about and stared beldiy at the house as if to pierce its very walls. The scene inside the house was a most impressive one. In the front parior the body of the great money king lay in a costly casket amid a great mass of flowers, the fragrance of which made the air heavy. To the left of the parlor was an ante room in which Dr. Paxton, Dr. Roderick Terry, and Chancellor McCracken were scated until they took their places under the half lamp which shed its ruddy rays oon them and the choir and organist, no were placed immediately opposite

Around this central group were ar-Around this central group were arranged those who had come to hear the femeral services. These included resuly one hundred men, all well known in the world of finance. Some were tailroad magnates and other powerful factors in the commerc of the country. None of the relatives of the family were to be seen. There were all an upper hall where the whole funeral service could be heard.

After an anthem the Rev. Dr. Paxton arose, and in somerous tones said: "Let ion and the life." This was followed by the singing of Cardinal Newman's hymn "Lead Kindly Light" and the conclud-ing portion of the burial services by the ing portion of the burial services by the Rev. R. Terry, D. D. At its conclusion Chancellor McCracken offered up prayer. The benediction over, there was a general movement toward the back parior, and here a line was formed and one by one each filed by the casket and glanced at the pale features of the late millionaire.

Tomorrow noon Mr. Gould's body will be taken from the family mansion to Woodlawn for interment in the Gould mauscoleum and at 3 o'clock Chancellor McCracken will perform the final obsequies.

Employes Mourn Him.

Br. Loris, Dec. 5.—Today's mail brought a large number of memorial resolutions and messages of condolence to the Missouri Pacific on account of the death of Jay Gould. 'If printed in full they would have filled four columns of a newspaper. Many of them, in fact a large majority, were from labor organizations scattered along the labor organizations scattered along the entire Missouri Pacific system. In some of the resolutions Mr. Gould was reterred to as our liberal employer and and friend. One set of resolutions same from the alderman of a town in and prominent citizens.

ment that Mgr. Satolli has been appointed by the Pope with full power to bottle without appeal all religious questions between bishops and priests in the United States has caused considerable excitement in Catholic circles here. The announcement was made by Cardinal Gibbons. An effort to interview him on the subject was un projew him on the subject was un-availing, the only thing that leaked from him being a confirmation of the report. What was the cause of the appointment or when it was made he fused to my. The announcement, it almost unnecessary to say, will have a sensation in Catholic circles aroughous the country.

Why Cardinal Gibbons should be preriocked and such plenary powers be given to one directly from the Vations is only one among the many perplexing questions asked about it.

no matter hos

It had been sumored, indeed, that Mgr. Satolil, in addition to the reasons above named, had been sent to America on a accret mission as a special representative of the Pope, but none had conjectured that he would be intrusted with such autocratic power as would practically make him the pope of America. The chief reason for the action, and the one that obtains general credence, is that Pope Leo's long-continued ill health determined him to delegate such duties as properly devolve upon him to one whom he can implicitly trust. Such a man is undoubtedly Mgr. Satolii, who, next to conjectured that he would be intrusted with such autocratic power as would practically make him the pope of America. The chief reason for the action, and the one that obtains general creatence, is that Pope Leo's long-continued ill health determined him to delegate such duties as properly devolve upon him to one whom he can implicitly trust. Such a man is undoubtedly high Satelli, who, next to Cardinal Rampolia, is generally credited with standing nearer to the Pope than any other among the Catholic dignitaries at Rome. It is a plausible reason, but whether it is the true one cannot of course be definitely known at present.

cannot of course be definitely known at present.

An interesting subject which comes up in this discussion is whether the famous Dr. McGiyun case will be taken up by Mgr. Satolli. It is a well known fact that the excommunicated priest is desirous of being restored to orders, and is agitating the subject with all the means in his power. One of the chief reasons why he requests a rehearing is that sufficient evidence was not presented in his behalf at Reme. He has frequently declared that if the evidence had been taken in New York, his noted controversy with Archbishop Corrigan would have resulted in his favor. Now that such an opportunity is offered him it is not thought that he will let it pass and probably the first action taken by Mgr. Satolli in his new official capacity as arbitrator will be a reopening of the case.

WILL CONSOLIDATE.

Two Ratiroads to Be Merged into One Next Year.

TRARE HAUTE, Ind., Dec. 5.—The president and officers of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois and Evansville & Terre Haute railroad spent the morning in the city and completed arrangements for that which ultimately will mean the consolidation of the two lines. As the relationship now stands the two will be so closely allied that a consolidation will be of minor matter. The visitors consisted of President M. J. Carpenter, Vice President Lafford, General Superintendent C. H. Rockwell, Superintendent L. J. Matthews, Superintendent of Power W. H. Miller, Chief Engineer H. F. Baldwin, of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois; President Brammer, Superintendent W. M. Corbett, Master Mechanic John Terrence and Master Car Builder John F. Scott, of the Evansville & Terre Haute TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Dec. 5 .- The Scott, of the Evansville & Terre Haute and Evansville & Indianapolis roads.
The party spent the day in looking over the vards and property of the two companies and making suggestions for changes. The consolidation will occur no later than the first of the year.

Want Protection

Want Protection.

Losdon, Dec. 5.—The great preparations which are being made to make the agricultural conference, which commences its work on Wednesday next, an influential and impressive gathering, show that there is a strong and genuine wave of protection feeling affecting the farmers of Great Britain. At the mid-Annandale Agricultural society's meeting held at Lockerbi it was resolved that a modified fair trade policy was the only means to remedy funeral service could be heard.

After an anthem the Rev. Dr. Paxton arose, and in somorous tones said: "Let us invoke the divine blessing." With heads bowed the large assemblage listened reverently to the prayer offered by the dead financier's pastor. The prayer enited, Dr. Paxton read a portion of the Episcopal service for the dead, beginning. "I am the resurrection and the large assemblage in various parts of the country, indicate a wave of sentiment in behalf of protection that is aircady beginning to alarm the liberal leaders, while it is evidently foatered and encouraged by the tories.

Fighting for His Life.

San Francisco, Dec. 5—In the Curtis murder trial today the prosecution concluded its evidence and Attorney Knight made the opening statement for the defense. He cutlined the evi-dence to be submitted in behalf of Curtis; went over the story of the shooting as it has been given before, stating that he would show that the footpad who had attacked Curtis was the man efforts for the defense will be directed toward the impeachment of J. He has been training for the ordeal for two weeks. He has brought himself down from 140 to 122 pounds and he expects to lose twenty-five pounds during his enforced fast, or half a pound daily.

Bad for Agriculturists.

London, Dec. 5.—Sir John-Tawes, in his review of the agricultural situation, warns agriculturists against expecting an improvement soon. The Mark Lane Express endorses this view. The imperial average for English wheat up to November 27 has been, the Mark Lane Express says, from ten shillings to ten shillings and one penny lower than in 1801.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES-The latest edition of "Tales from Town Topics," which is No. 6 of the series, is just published, and with an unusually large collection of animated stories, sketches, poems and witticisms, stories, sketches, poems and witticisms, is presented an original novelette by C. M. S. McLellan, entitled "The Sale of a Soul," seventy-five pages in length. This story of metropolitan high and low life is full of character and local color, and the remainder of the book is up to the high standard of literary excellence customarily followed by this publication.—Town Topics, 21 West Twenty-third street, New York.

George P. Upton, the musical critic of the Chicago Tribune, contributes an article on "Music in Chicago," to the December New England Magazine, which will be widely read in every city of the Union. It deals with the growth of the interest in music from the meetings in "The Sauganash" tavern of 1826, where Mark Beaubien used to delight a mixed audience with the fid-dle. Mr. Upton gives a concise history of all the musical movements in Chiago, down to date, and also in brief cago, down to date, and also in brief the characteristics of the notable musicians who have figured in them. The article is well illustrated with portraits

"A Fisher Girl of France" is the title of an entertaining story by Fernand Calmettes, which Dodd, Mead & Co. have recently published. The story is French—distinctly so. It is of the realistic type, which George Sand handles so charmingly, and certain phases of which Zola has proved himself such a perfect master. Many of the climaxes are vivid overdrawn perhaps. But it are vivid, overdrawn perhaps. But it would not be a French story if it were not over dramatic at times. Taking it as a whole it is very readable. It is for sale by Palmer, Mesch & Co. Price

Frances Mary Steele and Elizabeth Livingston Steele Adams are the authors of a valuable little book for women—"Beauty of Form and Grace of Vesture." The book deals entirely with beauty and how to produce it. The effect of different garments in shaping the figure is explained. Bad forms and good forms are illustrated. forms and good forms are illustrated forms and good forms are mustrated by comparative diagrams. The object of the work is to remedy the evils of conventional dress, the diseases it entails and the abnormal growths produced, by leading the reader into the path of the ideal. The book is prettily illustrated with engravings from the acknowledged classic representatives of the human form divine. Published by Dodd, Mead & Co. For sale by Palmer, Meech & Co. Price $1.75.

Another volume of Dodd, Mead & Co.'s "Makers of America" series has been issued. It is devoted to the life and times of Bishop White. Julius H. Ward is the author, and the introduction is written by Bishop Patten of New York. The career of Bishop White involves the history of the first half century of the Episcopal church in America, and his biography contains much valuable church history.
